Going Out To Make Disciples: Some of Jesus's last words to His disciples before ascending to Heaven came to be known as the Great Commission from Matthew 28:19, 20. Jesus commanded His disciples to make disciples wherever they went. This catalog was created to help you identify places where you might already be going, or places where you might already be going, or places where you would like to go, and in that experience bring people to Jesus, baptizing and teaching all He commanded. Wherever you go, there are people waiting for you. There are ways for you to obey that command.

Going begins with walking out your front door into your neighborhood; it extends to the ends of the earth. Whether reflecting the love of Jesus in your neighborhood or bringing light to peoples of the earth who have not yet had access to the knowledge of redemption through Jesus, the call is the same—wherever you go, love your neighbor as yourself, baptizing and teaching in the name of Jesus. Seek God to discover where He wants you to be. Every day continue to seek how to be that shining light that guides people to see the glory of God.
